HAVAS

London, 13th—Negotiations between England and Portugal are progressing favorably and an amicable "modus vivendi" is expected in the African difficulty. The Portuguese Minister had a long interview yesterday with Lord Salisbury and withdrew with every evidence of satisfaction.

Vienna, 13th—Tisza has abandoned the Hungarian premiership and Szapary succeeds him, taking charge also of the portfolios of Interior and Commerce.

Belgrade 13th—The King has refused to accept the collective resignation of the Cabinet which will continue as before.

Paris, 13th—The French Government has named five delegates to the Workmen's Conference, one of whom is Jules Simon. The delegates start to-morrow.

Rome, 13th—Owing to the censure of several colleagues for having moved a vote of confidence in the Government, last Thursday, with regard to its African policy, Menotti Garibaldi sent in his resignation as deputy, but the House unanimously rejected it.

Rio Janeiro, 13th—Owing to the sickness of the Minister of War, the Minister of Marine has taken charge of his colleague's portfolio.

Oporto, 12th—The Students' League formed to assault Minister Petre has been dissolved.

Berlin, 12th—The German Government will soon announce to the Powers that it has assumed the Protectorate over the Maunda and Patta Islands.

Rome, 12th—The Popolo Romano announces that the Marquis of Bute will become Chairman of the Anglo-Roman Catholic Bank, with Central office in London and branches in numerous cities.

London, 12th—The number of victims in the coal mine disaster is now put down at 88 men.

Rio Janeiro, 13th—The Banco Nacional and the Banco del Brasil have been authorized to issue 50,000,000 milreis paper each to be convertible when exchange allows such an operation. The opposition papers attack the decree and the creation of banks in the North.

London, 12th—The Daily Telegraph says it is premature to congratulate Sir Julian Pauncefort and the American Government on the settlement of the Behring Straits difficulty, for Canadians will never tolerate the practical monopoly of those waters by the Washington Government. The Telegraph says that blood will be split if the United States fail to waive such pretensions.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE BOLSA.

The note of the Minister of Finance to the Chairman of the Bolsa is no surprise to the market, as the change that is foreshadowed in that document is in the natural order of things. In the Government circle there is still a smarting and lingering impression that the Bolsa is to blame for the crisis, that the Bolsa speculates on the downfall of the paper dollar, that the brokers are the worst enemies of the finances of the nation; all this arises from mistaking effects for causes. Nobody thinks for a moment that the depreciation of paper, the mad speculation, the insane inflation and the crisis are the outcome of State-banking mismanagement. Nobody hints at the fact that the abuse of credit as distributed by these banks is the main source of our financial woes; no, this view of the situation is out of the question. Neither shall we rake up all this rubbish; let others dwell on these Augean stables.

The Bolsa was the victim last year. It is now triumphant, and some more rational means must be employed to curb that speculative spirit that finds vent at the magic ring; those means do not eradicate the cause of such evil, they aim at the effect. But this matters little; and if there is one thing we wonder at it is the leniency of the present Government interference, calling upon the Chairman of the Bolsa to present its charter and to bear in mind that next month the institution comes under the provisions of the reformed Commercial Code. So far as we can glean, the change, after all, will be all the better for the public at large. The change was not needed, but still it consults the general interest of the community. In the future the liquidator's occupation will be gone, and we shall all miss the anxiety in the drawing up of differences at the monthly settlements. All differences must be settled between the individual parties; the law cannot stop them, but prevents them going through liquidation as at present. We foresee a growth of cash business in this change and a falling off in operations on time; nothing more. In all other respects the speculation will continue in the eventenour of its way, and gold will rise and fall, stocks will flutter, and 'agio' will sway in spite of all legal brakes and fetters. We may add that the majority of members do not view the impending change in an unfavorable light.

GOLD SPECULATION.

The letter from a leading Italian broker which we give at foot, is calculated to cause an erroneous impression, namely, that the private banks lend paper against gold, which, as far as we know of the general business of these banks, is incorrect.

Most merchants and customers of these private banks hold two accounts current, one in paper and another in gold; and, no doubt, it often does happen that the customer will have gold to his credit and a balance against him in paper. It is almost impossible for bank managers to avoid this, as frequently in business transactions a house will be receiving gold and paying out paper, and vice versa; but in the ordinary routine of business gold is not pledged the same as stocks, and none of the private banks advance paper to buy gold on the terms of a fixed "caucion" or loan.

All foreign private banks hold their capital in gold, and most of their customers hold gold to their credit in a/c current; but no interference by the Government can alter this; and the Minister of Finance may rely on it, that no bank manager of any standing or position would lend himself to a movement or a speculation calculated to injure the very market in which his bank holds such great interests. The letter at foot, therefore, misses its point, in aiming to redress a state of things that does not really exist. The rise in gold suits no interest in this market, and the best proof of this is the drop in London in all River Plate Bank shares. All lose in one way or the other in a crisis like the present; and blind indeed must be the bank manager who would lend money from his bank to intensify that crisis.

The following is the letter:—

To the Editor.

Dear Sir:

We have all seen gold rise in one day from 250 to 272, and fall then in 48 hours to 243. I have seen brokers, secure in their so-called "metallized" position, take advantage of the panic, sell in the height of the market and then buy back when confidence began to return. What gold did they sell and what gold did they buy back? Was it theirs? No. Did it belong to their principals? No. It was surplus gold they held, deposited in some private bank against paper at a gold premium of 100, 80 or 50 o/o This gold they could not withdraw if they ran short of paper. They would be obliged to sell the gold if they failed to find paper on loan for 15 days, lent out on that gold.

To the many causes of the present crisis we must add the above of parties who have seized every favourable opportunity not only to metallize but to absorb nearly all the gold floating in the market: they formerly exacted enormous interest, but they now pay that usurious interest to master the situation and control the market and the country.

There is only one means of defense against them. That is to prevent them from holding the gold which they do not own.

It would be expedient that the banks which have earned such great profits when the country was flourishing should for one single month forego the profits of these gold "cauciones" against paper money and refuse any renewal of such "cauciones."

Summon, for instance, one hundred brokers, or one hundred men engaged in legitimate trade operations, and ask them what effect such a measure would produce in the market? They would agree that gold would immediately fall to 120 o/o more or less.

I know that you cannot oblige the banks to carry out such measures, but just as in recent times the Minister of Finance and Vice-President invited the bank managers to a private meeting in the government house, they might do so again and ask them to pledge their word that they would refuse to renew paper loans against pledge of gold during the month of March, thus leaving the liquidation on 'Change to its fate.

There are private banks whose interests are intimately linked with those of the country, banks that have progressed 'pari passu" with the nation, and that would not deny such a request. Others which have no other interests to consult but their own would be obliged to follow the example set, although they might resist at first. And if they do not submit, well the country and market will know then who to blame for the evils of the situation and position, and opinions will be defined.

A. F. (Broker).

THE NEW URUGUAYAN MINISTRY.

The Cabinet formed by President Herrera across the water could scarcely have been more judiciously chosen. All are good men and true, and the new ministry presents a very fair array of talent and experience. In the very first line comes Dr. Pena, the Finance Minister, a gentleman who wrote as follows in 1882: "The credit of the State depends mainly on economy and proper book-keeping—on the strict compliance of the Government with its obligations—on the stability of the political machinery; and to do all this we must have a proper budget, and carry it out strictly and conscientiously. Let us ever seek a surplus, by avoiding useless expenditure, by reducing our standing army, by lopping off the parasitical supernumerary, and stimulating the moral civilization and political education of the people."

Not a word about loans, or banks, or Bolsas. Dr. Pena has always modelled his conduct on his principles, from which he has never swerved; and he now enters the Finance Office in Montevideo to stamp the impress of those principles on the account-books of his country, to continue the good that has been begun, to suppress the evil that may have crept in, but not to try experiments with so delicate a branch of Government as the management of the country's finances. He will enforce the ordinary and simple rules of arithmetic, and refrain from indulging in algebraic speculations on chances, or in new theories on the squaring of the circle.

Mr. Alberti Capurro is the Home Minister. He is a man of energy and character, familiar with all the little details that make up his vast department, and therefore suited to the post for which he has been named. He is esteemed as a man of upright character and talent.

The Foreign Affairs Minister is Mr. Blas Vidal, who has so ably represented his country in Rio. He is a distinguished diplomatist and esteemed by all.

Dr. Carlos A. Berro is the Minister of Education and Public Worship. He is a leading member of the Catholic party, a circumstance which caused some opposition to his nomination. Like Zorrilla de San Martin and other distinguished Orientals, he was educated in Chile and is very popular.

The portfolio of War and Marine has been given to Gen. Villar, who enjoys great popularity and esteem.

On the whole, Dr. Herrera y Obes would have found it difficult to organize a better Cabinet, or more happily bring together the leading members of the great political parties of Uruguay; and while saluting their Excellencies, we hope that under their management the ship of State will meet with no foul weather and avoid the shoals into which we have been driven here.

A HINT TOWARDS THE SOLUTION OF THE CRISIS.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

Dear Sir,

Everyone deplores the present state of affairs—financial, commercial, political, and, as generally happens in cases of extreme danger, everybody looks to somebody else for help.

I think most unimpassioned observers will agree more or less with a recent observation attributed to President Celman, that it is not the Government "only and solely" which is to be blamed for the present crisis. If inordinate extravagance —which is the real cause of the present condition of things—has characterised the actions and measures of the Government, the people themselves have not been a whit freer from the same vice.

The people, however, look to the Government alone to help them out of their difficulties by proposing and carrying out remedial measures which to be efficient need the cooperation of the people themselves.

The remedy is in the hands of the people without assassination or revolution, or anything of a dastardly or bloodthirsty nature.

In all times of national trial at home the loyalty of the people is put to the test in the only practical way—the formation of a public fund. Why not, Mr. Editor, elect a committee of citizens to organize such a fund?

If we admit that the people have contributed to the general disaster, shall we not concede to them a right and extend to them an invitation to contribute to their own salvation? If every inhabitant contributed to such a fund 10, 20 or 100 dollars according to his means or disposition, ever so many millions would be collected. These millions should have one sole destination—a sacred, public bonfire. The residue of paper money in the country would necessarily be proportionately "valorizado" and the premium would correspondingly drop. If the contributors to this vast fund saw the purpose achieved for which it was formed, they alone would be the gainers; since, although they would possess so many paper dollars less, the value of what they still held should be so far increased as to more than compensate for their apparent sacrifice.

I am aware, of course, that to render such a scheme effective the co-operation of the government would be needed, giving solemn pledges to restrict paper issues and enforce strict compliance with the protective terms of the Banking Laws.

The people of this country lose sight of their power. Things have been hitherto too easy for them and they have fallen into indifferentism and supineness. Let them take to mind that the antidote to all politico-economical evils is simply to "Agitate! Agitate!! Agitate!!!

Begging you will excuse the length of this mere imperfect "hint," and trusting you will find room in your columns for same,

I am, etc.,

THE PARNELL COMMISSION REPORT.

EXTRAORDINARY SCENE IN THE HOUSE.

(Per ss. Vega.)

London, February 14.

The Lobby of the House of Commons saw a remarkable sight last night. It had been made known during the day that the Report of the three Judges who had conducted the Parnell Commission would be distributed to members of the House at 10 o'clock in the evening. Some time before ten o'clock a crowd of members, with a few newspaper correspondents among them, began to gather and thicken around the door of the office in the lobby where the copies of the Report were to be given out. In order to prevent members in their eagerness from crowding into the office, and so to speak suffocating its movements, the door was closed against them from the inside. The House of Commons is in many ways very like a boys' school, and there were groans of disapprobation at the barring of the door. The debate on the Address was going its not very exciting way in the House meanwhile. Suddenly an odd idea, we have heard, occurred to a member of the Opposition. The House was nearly empty, the lobby, near the barred door, was crowded. How if a "coun" were to be moved? The effect must be that all the supporters of the Government would have to fly into the House and leave the chance for the first batch of the Reports open to members of the Opposition. "It was done almost ere thought of," as Goethe says in a pretty ballad. The electric bell thrilled its one note—the note that tells of a "count," as the three notes tell of a division. Devoted supporters of the Government grumbled, winced, murmured a secret prayer or two, and darted or scuttled into the House. Then was seen a messenger coming across the lobby bearing a huge pile of blue-covered Reports. He was making his way through the throng of members still waiting; his intention obviously was to carry his load into the office, where it could be formally distributed. But the members could not wait, would not wait, for this orderly ceremonial. They distributed this first batch of Reports themselves. That is to say, they tore them from the messenger, scrambled for them, flung them about in their haste, trampled inadvertently on them, and, in the end, effectually distributed them. By the time the "count" was over the whole of the first delivery of the Reports was over. Everything serious must, we suppose, have its farcical side. This was the farcical side of the reception given by the House of Commons to the grave Report of the three learned Judges. Before the Report could be laid upon the table of the House it had already been laid upon the floor of the lobby. The Judges have no need to feel offended or aggrieved. The turbulent movements in the lobby were but a tribute to the interest and the importance of the Report.

The Report is addressed to her Majesty, it is signed by all the Commissioners, and it amounts to a practical acquittal of the Irish Members on the charges of personal complicity in crime so recklessly made against them. Mr. Parnell and his colleagues were accused by the Attorney-General in the case of O'Donnell v. Walter with being actively and directly concerned in the horrible crime of murder. In particular it was alleged that they were well acquainted with the conspiracy which resulted in the assassination of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke: that they sympathised with the object of the assassins; that they assisted them to evade the hand of justice; that they supplied them with funds for that purpose; that their denunciations of the crime were hypocritical and that they secretly rejoiced at what they openely condemned. In general it was asserted that the Land League, and its successor the National League, were founded on murder, and conducted by murderers; that their constitutional organization was an elaborate sham, that their weapons were gunpowder and dynamite. These statements are now decided upon judicial authority to have been conclusively disproved. They are foul and wicked falsehoods, which no one had at any time the smallest excuse for uttering. The Commissioners have vindicated at once the character of the Irish leaders and the integrity of the English Bench. They fearlessly condemn boycotting, and on that we shall have a word to say presently. But they find that the League was what it professed to be; that its procedure was fair and above-board; that the methods it practised were those it inculcated and none others; that the suggestions of underground contrivances are untrue. They hold that not only the letters attributed to Mr Parnell himself, but those which were put forward to implicate Mr. Egan, Mr. Davitt and Mr. O'Kelly are forgeries. They "entirely acquit Mr. Parnell and the other respondents of the charge of insincerity in their denunciation of the Phœnix Park murders." They say that "the respondents did not directly incite persons to the commission of crime other than intimidation," and that they have never made payments for the purpose of inciting persons to commit crime." The Attorney-General alleged that none of the defendants had ever denounced crime and outrage. The Commissioners decide that some of them, especially Mr. Davitt, did in good faith denounce both. "It has not been proved that they subscribed to testimonials for, or were intimately associated with notorious criminals, or that they made payments to procure the escape of criminals from justice." With regard to Mr. Parnell, and apart altogether from the question of the letters, the Commissioners report that the charge made against him in connection with Sheridan and Boyton is altogether unfounded. They dismiss it as follows:—"That Mr. Parnell should employ Sheridan and Boyton to quiet the disturbed districts was natural, as they had no doubt acquired influence in those districts. We cannot doubt that Mr. Parnell was aware of the inflammatory speeches they had made, but there is no evidence that Sheridan or Boyton had organized crime." As to the libel that Mr Parnell aided Frank Byrne to escape from arrest after the Phœnix Park murders, they say: —"That Mr. Parnell paid a sum of 100*l.* to Frank Byrne at his request immediately before he left the country has been proved, but it has been satisfactorily shown that he had no connection with his flight, and that Mr. Parnell had no knowledge of his intention to leave, or of the cause."

Thus the basis of "Parnellism and Crime", with the hideous superstructure raised upon it, disappears from view. We are sure that every honest Conservative will be as glad as the most enthusiastic Liberal to see the leaders of a national movement cleared from odious suspicion in the sight of all men and in the face of day. We are now brought back to those matters of public notoriety which were used as political weapons against the Home Rule party in the Parliament of 1880, especially by the late Mr. Forster in 1883. We have already seen that the imputation made upon Mr. Parnell by Mr. Forster at the time of the so-called Treaty of Kilmainham is baseless. Mr. Parnell did not undertake to employ in the repression of crime those who to his knowledge had been previously engaged in instigating it. What then remains? The Commissioners report that some of the respondents, including Mr. Davitt, but not Mr. Parnell, "established and joined in the Land League organization with the intention by its means to bring about the absolute independence of Ireland as a separate nation." That is not a moral offence, and no honest man need think any the worse of Mr. Davitt, or his associates for having taken part in a revolutionary struggle. Mr. Dillon and Mr. O'Brien are the most prominent of the persons specified in this connection. Both have been won over by Mr. Gladstone. Both are now British citizens and loyal subjects of the Queen, while remaining as true Irish patriots as ever. Such are the conciliatory results of a courageous and sagacious policy. The Commissioners "find that the respondents did enter into a conspiracy by "a system of coercion and intimidation "to promote an agrarian agitation against "the payment of agricultural rents, for "the purpose of impoverishing and expelling from the country the Irish landlords, who are styled 'the English garrison'." This is only one of many passages in which the Commissioners condemn boycotting in the sense of intimidation. They were bound to condemn it. It is illegal, and they are Judges of the land. It is often cruel, and they are humane men. It is the resort of a desperate and disaffected people. They have the happiness to sit in the enjoyment of universal esteem, and give judgment according to law where law is the embodiment of the popular will. With respect to the ultimate object of boycotting, the expulsion of the landlords, the Commissioners do not say when it was formed or when it was abandoned. The only date they mention is the month of December, 1879, a year and a half before the passing of that great Land Act which was so lately and so justly eulogised by Lord Cadogan, the acknowledged representative of the Irish Government in the House of Lords. The Commissioners report that "the respondents did incite to "intimidation, and that the consequence "of that incitement was that crime and "outrage were committed by the persons "incited." This, it will be observed, is a strictly constructive charge. The high-minded Judges who sign this Report do not say that the respondents incited to crime and outrage, or to either of them. They simply state that the circumstances in which certain speeches were delivered made those speeches dangerous. Was there ever a political or agrarian agitation in the world of which this could not be said?

The gist of the accusation against the Irish members and Mr. Davitt was that they based their movement upon a scheme of assassination and outrage. That vile calumny is exploded, and recoils with terrible force upon those from whom it proceeded. There is no foundation for it. It was stated in "Parnellism and Crime" that the Invincibles were a branch of the Land League. That also is branded as false by three of her Majesty's Judges, not one of whom has the slightest sympathy with the Land League or any of its promoters. Mr. Parnell and his colleagues, one and all, stand finally absolved from all taint of intercourse with murderers What Mr. Sexton said to Colonel Saunderson is true, and no one dare make again in public any of the allegations by which the Irish Nationalists have been assailed. The campaign of moral assassination is over. Three upright and independent Judges, whose prejudices, if they had any, were all against Home Rule, have cleared the public life of Great Britain from a dark and ugly cloud. Mistakes have been made by Home Rulers, high and low. Some of those mistakes were serious. We have always disapproved of boycotting and intimidation in every form. We recognise the excuses which have been made for them, but we do not regard those excuses as adequate. It is found that "the respondents did disseminate The Irish World and other newspapers tending to incite to sedition and the commission of other crime." The Commissioners do not say what "other crime," and, of course, every illegal act, without reference to its moral nature, is in their eyes a crime. We entirely agree with the Commissioners, if we may say so, that much of the language cited from The Irishman is "most abominable." Mr. Parnell was under the impression that this paper came to an end in 1881, and it is much to be regretted that an organ of Pigott should have been continued. It had, however, an extremely small circulation, and probably did as little harm as such a mischievous print could do. United Ireland, especially while Mr. O'Brien was in prison, published articles and paragraphs of a reprehensible character, though far less infamous than "Parnellism and Crime." We cannot take so serious a view of the finding that the respondents accepted money from Patrick Ford. Ford has from time to time advocated very wicked doctrines. But the money he collected was not his own, and it was used by the defendants for constitutional ends. It seems to us mere pudery to denounce the receipt of contributions through a tainted channel. The Commissioners do not denounce it, and they write, "It has not been proved that the respondents or any of them knew that the Clan-na-Gae controlled the League or was collecting money for the Parliamentary Fund." The cases of compensation to persons injured in the commission of offences are few and trifling. The general inference from this Report is to clear the Irish members, with Mr. Davitt, from all participation in crime, to leave this question of their political conduct exactly where it stood at the period of the Tory-Parnellite alliance in 1885, and to vindicate the absolute impartiality of the Special Commissioners.

In the Stock Exchange yesterday prices again advanced, although closing a little under the best points of the day. The maintenance of the Bank rate at six per cent appears to have disappointed a few, and accounts for the dulness at the close. Consols were finally 97⅛, ⅜ for the account. At the Bank the sum of £79,000 was bought.

(Per S. S. Trent)

February 13th.

In the House of Commons yesterday, Sir J. Fergusson informed Mr. Cremer that the relations between this country and Portugal were friendly, and that the Portuguese Government had suggested a reference of the matters in dispute to arbitration, but that her Majesty's Government considered the case inapplicable to that process.

The motion for an Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was made by Mr. Royden and seconded by Lord Brooke. Mr. Gladstone, in commenting on the topics in the Queen's Speech, expressed his belief that the Government had cause for taking action in the Portuguese question, and he acknowledged that if there was to have to been action at all, it was much better that it should have been prompt. He attributed the improvement in the state of Ireland to the hope of Home Rule among the Irish people, and to the improvement which had taken place in the agricultural condition of the country. Mr. W. H. Smith in acknowledging the courteous criticism of the right hon. gentleman, deplored that there had been any difference between this country and Portugal; but he believed that the Portuguese Government would come shortly to an understanding which would render all further difficulties absolutely impossible. He echoed Mr. Gladstone's sentiment that tithe was a national property, and care would be taken that it remained intact as such. The Government were not in a position to devote time this Session to the subject of assisted education.

The Debate was adjourned.

The Duc D'Orleans appeared yesterday before the Correctional Tribunal in Paris, which sentenced him to two years' imprisonment. He admitted that he had broken the Law of Exile, but claimed his right as a Frenchman to serve in the National Army. M. Rousse made an impassioned speech on his behalf, which more than once excited applause in the crowded court, to the indignation of M. Tardif, the Presiding Magistrate. After his sentence the Prisoner was taken back to the Conciergerie. The law allows him several days within which to give notice of appeal.

A number of barristers and young nobles, friends of the Duke, rushed from the Court crying "Vive le Duc D'Orleans!" They hurried to the neighbouring bridge which is adorned with a statue of Henry IV., with wreaths of flowers and evergreens, to place on the bronze figure. The police interfered, there was a scuffle, the wreaths were confiscated, and some thirty-five gentlemen were arrested. Later in the day sixteen of the Prisoners were discharged.

Short loans were in good demand yesterday at 6 per cent., and discount rates remained steady, three months Bank bills being quoted at 4½ per cent. On the Stock Exchange Home Railway Stocks improved all round, but in most other departments the tone was dull and business quiet. Consols rose ¼, to 97⅛ ⅜ for money. The Bank received £197,000, making the total influx for the week £420,000.

(Per French M. S.)

London, Feb. 15th

In the House of Lords yesterday the Earl of Milltown presented a Bill for rendering burglars and housebreakers found with firearms in pursuit of their designs liable to corporal punishment. It was read a first time. On the Motion of Lord Duntaven, the Select Committee on the Sweating System was reappointed.

The Debate on the Address was resumed by Mr. Parnell, who moved an Amendment condemning the unjust, exasperating, and futile administration of the Government in Ireland. Every act of Mr. Balfour's administration had been directed to drive the people into crime. The administration was one of petty prosecutions, of frivolous charges against children, old women, and newsboys, and of actions against people for burning tar barrels, blowing horns, and laughing or winking at policemen. The Attorney General for Ireland replied that the effect of the administration was shown by the reduction of cases of boycotting from 4901 for the quarter ending 30th June, 1887, to 152 for the same period last year. The Press prosecutions, in every case last year, were prosecutions for intimidation, and the Government in no way interfered with the liberty of the Press. Sir G. Trevelyan held that the present method of dealing with the Press laid the whole Press of Ireland at the mercy of the Government. As regarded boycotting and combination, things were crimes in Ireland which were not crimes in England. Mr. Brodrick described the efficacy of the Crimes Act in decreasing crime. Colonel Saunderson contended that the section of the Irish people which found the law exasperating was the section which made free with the lives of other people. The Debate was adjourned.

The Prussian Council of State assembled at the Castle, Berlin, yesterday, and were addressed by the Emperor William somewhat in detail, upon the inquiries relating to labour and the condition of the working classes, into which he desires them to enter. At the close of his speech, the Emperor designated the sections of the Council which he wishes to commence the investigations, and said he would attach to them a number of experts.

The Duc d'Orleans has been visited in jail by the Duc d'Aumale. A number of students entertained the Duc de Luynes at dinner on Thursday night, and asked him to convey an expression of their esteem to the prisoner. Yesterday morning the Duc de Luynes was informed that his permission to visit the Duc d'Orleans was cancelled.

The little King of Spain, for the first time since his illness, took a drive yesterday in a close carriage with his mother. His health is daily improving, though he still looks rather thin and pale.

Count Hartenau (Prince Alexander of Battenberg) arrived in Vienna yesterday from Pesth, and alighted at the Hotel Elisabeth. A Graz paper states that he will be shortly gazetted to the command of the 7th Dragoons, quartered in Vienna.

Mr. Ernest Benzon was brought before the Correctional Tribunal at Nice, yesterday, charged with forging the signature to a cheque for a thousand pounds. The prisoner admitted that he obtained the money from the Bank in order to recover previous losses at Monte Carlo, and that he lost the whole sum. He said he came into a fortune of three hundred thousand pounds two years ago, and was now a bankrupt. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

The Lower House of Convocation yesterday passed a resolution asking the Bishops to take steps to prevent the Divorce Bill recently passed by the Legislature of Victoria from receiving the Royal Assent.

Money was 6 to 6½ per cent in the open markets yesterday, and occasionally loans at the Bank were renewed at 7 per cent The discount rate was 4½ ¼ per cent. Prices dragged on the Stock Exchange, and business was insignificant. Foreign Stocks, however, were supported from the Continent. Consols fell ⅛, to 97½ ⅜ for cash. The Bank received £53,000 in gold from abroad.

Railway Items.

The avalanche of mails yesterday brought us long articles about the last Central Argentine Railway meeting, some of them very severe. One of these articles we publish in another column. But the great news from London comes from private sources and deals with the rumoured amalgamation of the Anglo-Argentine, Buenos Ayres and Central Tramway Companies, with a joint capital of 4½ millions sterling. Mr. Charles Sanford has worked to promote this arrangement, which, if successful, will result in the immediate formation of a Board of Directors, headed by Mr G. W. Drabble. Mr Lambert, of the Anglo-Argentine Tramways, would be named vice-chairman. Such an arrangement would be of great advantage to the public, since by bringing three important lines under one management greater facilities for travelling would be afforded.

Mr John Clark, the railway king, left yesterday for Chile overland. He will remain there a month to complete some arrangements for the construction of the Transandine Railway.

The Municipality have authorized the Buenos Ayres Tramway (New) Company to open to traffic the first section of their line. The line starts from Puente Alsina, runs through the street of the same name as far as Salta, turning down Brazil to Plaza Constitucion and thence to Zeballos, Cochabamba, Entre Rios and San Juan.

We clip the following from a London exchange:—

"The Buenos Ayres Grand National Tramways Company (Limited) have received a letter from the contractors stating that a cablegram from Mr. Crosbie, their manager in Buenos Ayres, had been received, informing them that he is running goods cars from La Boca to Station A, and also entirely across the city to the Recoleta and the Las Palmas Gardens, and, in fact the tramways are now practically completed.

The Nacional of last evening published a long letter from Mr E. G. Romby, ex-manager of the Andine Railway, shewing clearly enough, and as we ventured to say from the first, that there are no grounds for the scandalous disclosures made by certain papers of the Interior on the rescinding of the Sanford Clark contract. Mr Romby calls for an inquiry into the charges made against the railway and challenges his accusers to prove the most trivial charge made. The detained goods, instead of tea, coffee, gold watches, and loose diamonds as one might imagine after a perusal of the recent vehement articles of our contemporaries up country, turn out to be timber, which could not be removed owing to the want of "guias," and owing to some extra-official interference.

That abominable and dangerous branch of the Western Railway running to the Almagro-Vasura Deposit and Barracas is to be suppressed. Dr. Araoz is at least doing his best to have it suppressed and eliminated from the inventory. Governor Paz's decision in the case will probably be known in the beginning of next week.

Government have authorised the Argentine Great Western to run the following new rolling-stock:—10 locomotives, 4 sleeping saloons, 14 luggage-vans, and 339 wagons.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Affairs in general were rather quieter yesterday, though some robust rumours were afloat. The gold premium looked lively. The mails from Europe were very newsy. The Parnell Commission report completely vindicates Ernie's "uncrowned King". The scene in the lobby of the House of Commons when the Report was being distributed was very funny.

The approaching wedding of the King of Clowns, Frank Brown, was announced yesterday. The bride is only 19 years of age, and very handsome.

The news from Montevideo yesterday was lively. All sorts of political rumours were afloat, and shares and stocks looked queer on the Bolsa. Some of the Mount papers speak in very plain terms of what is going on here, and the remedy for it. Mr. Richard Flores, Inspector-General of Police, threatened to resign if Mr. Berro got a seat in the Cabinet; but President Herrera told him plainly that he did not want his interference or advice.

We learn on good authority that Dr Carranza, whose valuable "History of the Argentine Navy" has entitled him to the gratitude of not alone every true and patriotic "Porteno" but also of Britishers for his kind reminiscences of Admiral Brown, is about to commemorate the great naval duel of the century "Chesapeake versus The Shannon" by a grand feast on board one of the national gunboats now in port. The object is less to exalt the victors than to stimulate bravery among our young middies; and as such, if for no other reason, it is certain to meet with the warmest support of every well-wisher of the Republic. As yet no date has been fixed, but we believe that on the return of President Celman public anxiety will be relieved by an official decree.

Letters, dated March 1, were received yesterday from Bolivia announcing an awful explosion at Huanchaca. Five quintals of dynamite exploded outside the town. The explosion was terrific; the earth shook and people ran out thinking the whole town was destroyed by an earthquake. Hundreds of people near the deposits perished, but no trace has been found either of their remains or of the houses hardly. Some kerosene deposits took fire and the flames raged for three days. The losses are set down at 4 million dollars. The town of Huanchaca is in ruins, and it is said that it will not be rebuilt.

Messrs. Mackern and McLean and the Red Star Agency ran a dead heat into our office yesterday with the very latest papers from England. We thanked and blessed them both.

The account of the cricket match between B. A. and Lanus last Saturday, which was kindly sent to us, has not yet reached us: B.A. won the match by 63, totals being Lanus 70, B.A 133. E.R Gifford, Lewis and Denison played well for B.A. getting 22.31 and 47 not out. Duncan, Shearman and Anderson scored for Lanus 13, 16 and 20.

We were favoured yesterday with a copy of our new English contemporary, the Gleaner, a magazine of the Young Mens' Christian Association. It is very nicely got up, and we wish it the very best success.

A gay and festive party started yesterday in the afternoon by carriage, rail and tram for the fashionable suburb of Caballito, to assist at the marriage of Mr. Peter Gartland jun. with the charming and accomplished Miss Encarnacion Pirrubé. The venerable Parish priest of Monserrat tied the indissoluble knot after the most elaborate and orthodox fashion; and loud was the applause which greeted his more than solemn benediction when on conclusion of the official ceremony he addressed the happy couple as an old friend of both families. The lunch table was well supplied, and ample justice was done to all the good things by the dancing couples and their no less appreciative superannuated friends and spectators. After a champaign lunch at the house of Mr. Gartland, in Calle Florida, the happy pair started for Montevideo to pass the honeymoon. On their return home early next month we understand the bride and bridegroom intend to visit Naposta in the hope of inducing their numerous friends and relatives to contribute by their moral influence and support to the amelioration of the condition of the English and Irish settlers, just as Mrs Morgan paid for the education of the children pending the official operation of Government. The programme is a noble one and every way worthy of the son of the man who alone came forward to help the poor Dresden immigrants on their arrival here last year.

From Concordia we learn that the picnic on Sunday last to Captain Shand's colony, New Scotland, was a most enjoyable affair. The auction of the lands will take place next Sunday.

The fire in a leather store in Calle Cambaceres on Wednesday was a pretty lively one. Four English Insurance Offices are bound for $22,000 gold and the same amount in shinplasters. Loss $70,000.

Government has thrown out Mr. Pontercopoli's project for a theatre in Palermo.

We find the following general items in the River Plate Times. Montevidean bankers and their horses appear to have been on bad terms on Sunday last. Perhaps the latter asked for a little discount accommodation and were refused:—

"We regret to have to chronicle that Mr. Christie of the English Bank met with a serious accident on Sunday, when riding at Toledo. It is believed that his ancle has been dislocated and his arm broken, and at present he is in the British Hospital.

"Mr. Hill of the Brazilian Bank, also suffered a fall from his horse in the Plaza Cagancha, but beyond being badly bruised we hear he has received no further hurt.

"We sincerely regret to hear of the dangerous illness of Mrs. Cregan, a lady who has made herself universally esteemed during the comparatively short time she has been in Montev

American Whiskey.

DECKER'S

ABSOLUTELY PURE

This mild, mellow and delicious Whiskey is distilled from the finest growth of carefully selected Rye grain and Barley malt. It is a marvel of wholesomeness, excellence and evenness of quality, unequalled by any Whiskey in the market. It is bottled in bond for export only, is entirely free from fusil oil, possesses a natural flavor and fine tonic properties, suited exactly for tue use of invalids and weak and sickly persons. It is cooling, refreshing and strengthening so pure, smooth and ripe, and agreeable to the palate as to invite the attention of connoisseurs.

WILSON SONS & Co. LIM

Minister Pacheco and Mr. Anderson, manager of the London and River Plate Bank, had a lengthy interview together this afternoon at the Government House. Later on Mr. Sastre of the National Bank and Mr. Casares, of the Provincial Bank met in the ministerial parlor also. This banking meeting gave rise to all kinds of rumors on 'Change, but the topic under discussion in the Government House referred merely to some details of the revised commercial Code which will affect banking operations.

So much has been said in the market with regard to Cabinet meetings to solve the financial riddle, and so much nonsense has been published in this regard, that we think it well to inform our readers on the very best authority that nothing definite has been decided. The chief discussion in the councils has been about economy in the budget, but nothing can be done before Dr Juarez's arrival from Cordoba. Whatever may be mooted depends upon the decision of the President.

The President of the Republic will arrive back from Cordoba on Saturday at six p m. at the Central Station. The wiseacres who affect to know all that is going on for once agree that the panacea of the President will be a fresh issue of notes from the printing presses of all the free banks of the country. If this be true "sauve qui peut."

It was announced to-day that Mr Mauricio Roca has retired from the Board of the Banco Constructor de la Plata, with which he has been actively connected for many years. Amongst the shareholders this announcement will not create a favourable impression, as Mr. Roca's services have been most important, and his loss will be felt.

The fall in 1 rovincial Cedula series I is the most marked that has occurred in this market since the crisis began, and corresponds with the rumour that large lots of this series have come out in the packet for sale. Nearly the whole of this series is held in England, and the great rise in gold may have had something to do with the orders coming from Europe to sell, as the coupons now selling in London are at so low a price that investors find it better to sell out than hold on in a falling stock and a rising gold market. Prices for this series I jumped down to-day from 84 to 75, and last month fell from 95 to 85. Thus it is evident that large foreign holders are getting rid of the stock, and all Cedulas are now in such low esteem in Europe that it may inconvenience the market most seriously if bankers determine to realize.

Engineer Seelstrong is at present engaged in drawing up an atlas of the Republic.

La Aseguradora Internacional has offered to insure all the offices and dependencies of the Home-Office. If the insurance be effected, the company will give half of it to foreign companies.

Messrs. Novaro and Co. have applied to Government to build a town at Los Juncales. The new town would be called Venezia Argentina.

Mr. Rodrigues Botet, who holds a valuable concession for surveys and collecting products on the Patagonia coast, will not be able to begin the work just yet, as he is expecting boats and other elements from Europe. He has applied to Government for an extension of 50 days.

Mr. John Williams, one of the oldest and best known shipbrokers in London, was welcomed to-day on his arrival from England in the R.M.S. Trent. Although for many years connected with the Plate, this is his first visit to these shores.

Another sign of the times! Messrs. Bravo & Barros recently sold at auction by order of the Judge a piece of land in Floresta, measuring more or less nine squares, for 102,000 dols., the buyers being Messrs. Urdaniz and Milani: the land belonged to the Ponce de Leon heirs, and was set up with an upset price of 53,286 dollars. Everything went well at first until the time for payment expired, when the buyers alleged their inability to pay. The heirs appealed to the Judge, and the latter has decided that the sale be held over again with same upset price, and holding Messrs. Urdaniz and Milani responsible for any diminution in the price.

The leather-ware shop at the corner of Cambaceres and San Juan was almost burned to the ground last night. When the owners closed up for the night at eleven p.m. all retired, leaving the house empty, so that the origin of the fire, which was first noticed by a constable at two a.m., cannot be traced. After four hours' hard work, the fire brigade got the flames under, the damages being estimated at 70,000 dollars. The owners, who arrived to open for the day just as the fire was extinguished, were arrested by order of the judge. The business was insured in the London and Lancashire, Phœnix and British Mercantile for a total of 22,000 dollars gold and 22,000 dollars paper.

It seems that the idea of selling at dates only on "pagares," formulated and approved at the late meeting of "registreros," will have to be abandoned, as it meets with so much opposition, and even some of the first promoters have withdrawn their names. The times are so out of joint that it will be difficult to hit on any plan at all that will merit general support.

Mr. J. Arthur Maguire, Argentine Consul-General in Canada, who has arrived out in the Lamport and Holt steamer Vega, was welcomed to-day. He has handed us the following interesting notes of the voyage:—

"The steamship Vega, of the Lamport and Holt line, has just arrived, after a most pleasant passage of twenty-three days and a half from Southampton, which includes a stoppage of eighteen hours at Madeira.

All the passengers are loud in their praise of Captain James Buck, the commander of this fine ship, and everything points to his becoming the favorite captain in this employ.

An address was presented to the captain yesterday by the saloon and steerage passengers. I enclose you a copy of the same, which I should thank you exceedingly to reproduce in your much-read paper, as it is only due to Captain Buck, seeing the efforts he has made to make the passage safe, agreeable and comfortable.

The Vega is a sister ship to the Wordsworth, is lighted by electricity throughout, and is most comfortable.

Two concerts were given on the passage, of which I enclose programmes.

Among the passengers are Mr. W.R. Parsons (of Bateman, Parsons and Bateman), Kouyon Stow, of Curumalan, and Adolph Bash, of the "Talleres Nacional," who is accompanied by his wife."

We have received the following from the purser of the R. M. s.s. Trent:—

"Latest dates:

"Passenger-list attached.

"After passing Ushant, encountered severe hurricane in the Bay of Biscay, but have met with fine passage since leaving Lisbon.

"In consequence of severe weather, the ship was delayed ten hours in the Bay of Biscay."

Passengers arrived per R.M. s.s. Trent: Mr A Taylor, Mr Granville Knox, Mr J Garrett, Mrs Herbert Crabtree and child, Messrs Couche, L J Hutton, G Harkness, John Todd, William Todd, L P Rouquaud, Miss Louisa Brown, Messrs J C Willis, J Smith, Vicente R Castello, J Williams, J A Harris and wife, C Roberts, P Nicodemo and 96 third-class passengers.

Passengers arrived by Lamport & Holt s.s. We take the following from our Montevidean exchanges:—

"On Monday a number of guests invited by Señor Chacon, attended at the Hotel Paris to witness the washing of the auriferous sand recently brought into town from the department of Minas, where there appears to be a great abundance. Out of the three handfuls of sand washed, the yield of gold was two grammes. Among those present were Dr. Rosendo Otero, Dr. Valdes Garcia, D. Lino Herosa, Señor Smith, Señor Carlos Fava Devotto, an officer of the Spanish navy and many others.

"The lines of the Telegraphic-Telephonic Company of the Plate have been united with those of the Transandine Telegraph Company, putting Montevideo in direct communication with any of the stations of the latter line via Galveston.

"On Sunday last, J. Maeso sold on account of the National Company, forty-four "solares," in Calles Constituyente, Maldonado, Canelones, etc., at $5.40 to $8.60 the square vara, and for a total of 115,374 dollars.

"The commercial house of this city, trading under the signature of Juan M. Payse has been declared bankrupt and the doors sealed. Liabilities, six hundred thousand dollars.

The s. s. Zeta Houlder liner, arrived in Montevideo to-day from London with 2300 tons of cargo for Montevideo, 700 tons for Buenos Ayres and 120 tons for Rosario.

Camp advices announce that the acopiadores or grain buyers of the exporting firms are now busy outside taking up the new wheat and flax, which sell well, wheat fetching $7.70 the 100 kilos and flax 10.50 m/n. Maize, however looks down, and it seems leaves no profit this year.

The Saturno of the Platense Flotilla, leaves the Boca on the 15th for Asuncion and intermediate ports. Trams for luggage will start between 9 and 10 a.m. on that day from the corner of Balcarce and Victoria.
